

The government had launched Uday reforms for the power distribution sector in November 2015, to turn them around from deep financial and operational losses.