

India has turned down China's request to more than double the weekly frequencies of commercial flights between the two countries. China currently has 42 weekly frequencies to India and wanted this number to be raised to 98.